

Torrance Men Work on Explorer

Four Torrance residents were among the 200 key scientists and engineers who contributed to the development of Explorer VI, the nation's largest and most sophisticated satellite.

Members of the Technical Staff of Space Technology Laboratories Inc., Los Angeles, then are: J. C. Helland, 4609 Newton St.; H. R. Judge, 19405 Empiradero; Henry Low, 8213 Calle Arboles; and Paul Ott, 22010 Linda Drive.

Space Technology Laboratories, Inc. was responsible for the design and development of Explorer VI and its instrumentation. Explorer VI is considered one of the most potent satellites yet placed in orbit. Because experiments in such important areas as radiation magnetic fields and propagation are being conducted simultaneously, the interactions of these phenomena and their effects on one another can be recorded and studied for the first time.
